

THE GAZETTE.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 18.

In the Greek elections all the members of the ministry were returned. The government will have a majority of two-thirds in the new chamber.

A syndicate of Amsterdam bankers has purchased nine hundred square miles of timber land in western Florida, on which to found a colony of Hollanders.

The dominion parliament has been dissolved and new elections ordered. The nominations will take place on the 15th of February and the polling on the 22d.

There are nearly fourteen hundred veteran soldiers in the national home at Milwaukee, and three hundred more are expected on the completion of the barracks in course of construction.

Andrew G. Curtis, Pennsylvania's war governor, recently had an operation performed on his right eye, that has been sightless for more than twenty years, and his sight has been completely restored.

It is now stated that the cholera has made much greater headway in South America than recent news from there has given reason to suppose. Late dispatches report the disease prevailing in Chili to such an extent that Peru has been compelled to close her ports against Chilean vessels.

Mrs. General Grant has added to the Grant monument fund $932.60 in the form of two checks submitted by the treasury department in favor of her late husband last year. One was for $120 arrears found to be due General Grant under Mexican war extra pay act. The other for $812.60 was the balance due the general on his salary from July 1, 1885, to the time of his death, July 23d, 1885.

Congressman William B. Cox, of North Carolina, has introduced a bill to allow the widow of the late Rev. Moses A. Hopkins, who died recently while Minister to Liberia, a year's salary. The late Minister Hopkins was a negro preacher from North Carolina. About a quarter of a century ago General Cox led the charge at Appomattox, and bears on his person the scars of eleven wounds. He little thought that he would introduce a bill to pay the widow of a colored fellow citizen several thousand dollars.

The Inter Ocean: Our Girls' Co-operative Clothing Association has gotten well under way, despite of some strenuous opposition from middle men who have hitherto clothed themselves in fine linen and fared sumptuously on the depression of women's wages. The girls have copyrighted a trademark, which is to appear on all the goods made by them. The public can and the girls in their protective war against the middlemen by once in a while asking for clothing which bears the trade-mark of the Our Girls' Clothing Manufacturing company of Chicago.

The certainty of the election of ex-Governor Chasman K. Davis, of Minnesota, to the senate, assures Washington society of a notable accession in Mrs. Davis, who is regarded as the most beautiful woman in the northwest. She has a tall, Jane-like figure, hazel eyes, a delicately moulded oval face, and a soft, rosy, porcelain-like complexion that is the despair of all who know her. She is exceedingly fond of horseback riding, and is a fine driver. Her motto for health is: "No day without the lines." She there fore may be seen every afternoon, rain or shine, driving her spirited carriage animals along some country road about St. Paul, or at the close of the day waiting at the foot of the stairway leading to Governor Davis' law office to drive him home. Mrs. Davis is an accomplished musician and a conversationalist of great tact. At home she is practical in all domestic management, and there are few frescoes in the black northwest where more comfort or a brighter flow of wit and humor may be enjoyed than at Governor Davis'. The Davises have no children.

An exchange relates that a fire broke out on or near a government wharf at Detroit. As there were no means at hand of extinguishing the fire the wharf would doubtless have been destroyed if the officer of engineers in charge had not succeeded in attracting the attention of a tugboat, which came to the wharf and put out the fire. For this service the captain of the tugboat rendered a bill of $40, which was paid by the officer in charge and forwarded to Washington with an explanation and a demand for reimbursement. The auditor officer threw out the bill upon the ground that the expenditure was unauthorized by law, since there had been no advertisement, no proposals, no surties, and consequently no assurance that the work had been awarded to the lowest bidder. The unfortunate officer will have to pocket the loss he incurred in saving some hundreds or thousands of dollars' worth of public property, unless he can get a bill through congress to pay him $40. The New York Times pertinently suggests that while this bill is pending it might be as well to prepare another which will lodge somewhere the power to relieve the auditing department from making such exhibitions of grotesque folly in the future.

Their Business Rooming.
Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at Frank Sheer & Co's Drug Store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article, from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Brouchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

It authorizes the executive committee to call its meetings at such times as seem best to that committee.

Mr. Reynolds, a bill to provide for the purchase of 200 copies of the Wisconsin Digest.

Mr. Evans, a bill to amend an act of 1885 relating to a toll bridge across the Wisconsin river.

Mr. Kanesly, a bill (same as senate No. 1) to repeal the mill tax law of 1885.

The senate joint resolution relating to the appointment of a committee on apportionment of the state into senate and assembly districts came up.

THE M'GLYNN REMOVAL.

Two Meetings in New York Raising Cash Over the Matter.

New York, Jan. 18.—A mass-meeting of Roman Catholics and others was held in Cooper union Monday evening to protest against the removal of Dr. McGlynn from the pastorate of St. Stephen's church. The large hall was filled to overflowing, many ladies being present. Dr. Jeremiah Coughlin presided, and in opening the meeting said they had met to sympathize and offer aid and assistance "to the priest of the poor," Rev. Dr. McGlynn. (Great cheering.) His removal, the speaker had no hesitation in saying, had been effected by the clique of political leaders who run the "fourteenth street institution" (laughter).

A speech was made by David Hooley, of the Irish World, who said there should be "No foreign trials" to call to account members of the Catholic church in this city. Archbishop Corrigan's conduct was pointed out, but was only an attempt on the part of the land question. James C. Archibald, editor of Dr. McGlynn's tract, that he would be retained, and thanked Mr. Preston for his removal.

Resolutions were adopted which declare that "The question has been publicly raised whether members of the Catholic church can consistently, with their religion, hold that private ownership is unjust and that the land of a country is rightfully the property of all the people of that country."

And quote the language of Archbishop Croie of Ireland, that "The land of Ireland belongs to the whole Irish nation for the Irish people," and Bishop Nulty's declaration that "No individual or class of individuals can hold a right of private property in the land of a country." The resolutions go on to say that the Roman Catholic church has laid down no doctrine on the land question, and therefore the archbishop has no right to demand the acceptance of his own views. The summons of Dr. McGlynn to Rome is protested against as an attempt to establish the dangerous precedent that an American citizen can be held to account by a foreign power for his political opinions in this country, and the friendly sympathy is expressed with Dr. McGlynn and he is promised moral and material support.

A resolution was introduced calling on the people to decide "how best it can be made manifest to the world that American Catholics claim political liberty for their priests."

The basement of St. Stephen's church was crowded Monday evening with parishioners and adherents of Dr. McGlynn. A meeting in his behalf. Resolutions were on the subject of declaring that those present would not contribute either with money or otherwise to the support of the church while deprived of the ministrations of Dr. McGlynn, and that a committee be appointed to present these resolutions to Archbishop Corrigan and ask him why Dr. McGlynn has been removed.

Miss Sara McCallie eloquently supported the resolutions, and a committee of twenty gentlemen and ten ladies was appointed in accordance therewith.

FIGHT OVER A COAL MINE.

In Which Shot-Guns and Bludgeons Are Appealed to.

Pittsburg, Jan. 18.—A Franklin, Pa. special says: A bloody battle was fought near Raymont, Saturday night, between two parties claiming possession of a coal mine. The party in possession, one Clayton, had received notice to vacate the premises by Black Bros., who claim to have a lease of the property. Instead of doing so, he collected several miners, whom he armed with shot-guns and bludgeons, and ordered every description and instructed them to hold the fort at all hazards. When Black Bros. went to take possession of the mine they were forcibly ejected from the premises.

They returned at midnight, and were reinforced by several friends, and attempted to re-enter the mine by force. A regular pitched battle was the result, during which a man named Sterling was severely beaten with a club over the head. Several others on both sides were badly hurt by thrown stones. Half an hour before the accident occurred thirty of the factory hands were grouped around the boiler awaiting the hour to begin work.

BLEW THEIR HEADS OFF.

Fatal Boiler Explosion—Narrow Escape of Thirty Men.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 18.—A twenty-horse power boiler used in heating dry-kills in the stove factory of Preston Kilde, at Crestview, Ind., exploded Monday morning, demolishing the building and killing Arthur Warner and Henry Miller, a boy of 15. Joseph Davidson had his left foot severely crushed, and David Kidd, the fireman, was severely burned on the back. The dead bodies were found when found. Half an hour before the accident occurred thirty of the factory hands were grouped around the boiler awaiting the hour to begin work.

The Standard Says a Good Word for Tenants.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Standard says there are beyond question many cases which bring shame and discredit upon the whole body of landlords in Ireland; cases wherein land owners have not behaved with any show of respect for equity, and in which they have done gross wrong to those whose happiness and even lives depended upon the landlord's forbearance. Such landlords, The Standard says, have no right to be sustained by the government with the means of enforcing decrees granted them by a strict process of law. Some of the evictions enforced this winter have been inhuman spectacles, fit only for a barbarous country and a barbarous age, and the government may well consider whether it is not time to discontinue the Irish executive from the enforcement of such decrees.

FIRST ROUND IN COURT.

IMPROVES THE POSITION OF THE INDIANA DEMOCRACY.

Judge Ayres Decides All the Points in Favor of Chairman Smith—An Appeal to the Supreme Court Immediately Taken—A Republican Senator Set Off Against McGehee—Other Political News.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 18.—Judge Ayres, of the circuit court Monday morning sustained the motion of Green Smith, president pro tem of the senate, for an injunction restraining Lieutenant Governor Robinson from attempting to usurp the functions of the plaintiff. The decision is favorable to the Democratic plaintiffs all along the line, the court holding that he had jurisdiction, overruling the motion for the continuance, and taking the view that the election of Robinson was invalid and unconstitutional, and therefore the defendant had no right to preside over the joint convention on Wednesday for the election of United States senator.

After quoting the provisions of the constitution the judge says that there is no provision in that instrument for the filling of a vacancy in the office of governor or lieutenant governor that could legally have held in November last, the constitution providing that "the official term of the governor and lieutenant governor shall commence on the second Monday in January, 1885, and every fourth year thereafter."

Lieutenant Governor Robinson has appealed to the supreme court, and although the judges are absent in recess, they were called together by telegraph and will sit at once to hear the argument. An effort will be made to get a decision before the joint convention, which sits Wednesday. The promised developments of the next two days, in keeping with former dispatches, will probably lead to two joint conventions, the election of Turpie by one and Harrison by the other, with the object of having the title to the seat settled by the United States senate.

Judge Robinson said that he had not determined what course he would pursue in the event the supreme court affirmed the order of Judge Ayres, or failed to take action before Wednesday. The matter was still under consideration, and the bridge would not be crossed until it was reached. From good Republican authority it is learned that it has been about decided that Col. Robertson shall make no attempt to preside over the joint convention on Wednesday unless the order of Judge Ayres is rescinded by the supreme court. In this case Speaker Sayre will preside, as it is competent for him to do it under the law, but Col. Robertson will sign the record in the capacity of lieutenant governor, and brave the displeasure of the court. The action of Judge Ayres has changed the situation to a considerable extent. The Democrats are jubilant.

The Democrats of the senate unseated W. N. McDonald, Republican, Monday afternoon, on the report of three of the committee on elections. The minority said it would not be ready to present a report until Tuesday morning, but the majority of the senate refused to wait, and without discussion adopted the report finding McDonald guilty of bribery. Braunman, the contestant, was seated, although the contestant tried to introduce testimony that he bought votes and used money illicitly in the election.

A resolution was introduced calling on the Republicans to introduce a joint committee of the two houses to arrange a modus vivendi, whereby the business of the session shall go on uninterrupted. Some of the Republicans were about to vote for it, when attention was called to the Meagher clause and they refrained. The resolution was afterward amended by dropping that clause and it was passed, two Republican voting ayes.

In the house Jovett, Democrat, asked unanimous consent to introduce a concurrent resolution declaring it to be the sense of the general assembly that the Smith-Robertson case should be carried to the supreme court, so that a decision could be obtained by Wednesday noon if possible. Consent was refused, and Jovett moved to suspend the rules and take up the resolution. The motion was defeated, one Republican—Reynolds, of Wayne—voting with the Democrats in the affirmative.

A new candidate has been presented in the person of Jacob B. Allen, who, it is said, will receive four votes in the house. Allen is a druggist at Terre Haute, formerly a Greenbacker, and now an active Knight of Labor, and was selected for senatorial honors at a caucus Monday night of the third party, attended by Robinson, who had been classified as a Democrat, and Gates, Glover and Mackay, who have been classified as Republicans. They have pledged their votes to Allen, and if they keep their pledges a deadlock will be produced, which is likely to continue for an indefinite period.

Ballooning for a United States Senator.
ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 18.—The Republican senatorial caucus met in the assembly chamber Monday night, with all the members present, except Aldridge, whose absence was noted. After a debate, during which the mention of Conkling's name evoked enthusiastic applause, it was decided that the candidate receiving the majority of the whole party should be elected, and that the party should be divided into two camps, one for the party nominee. This was a victory for the Morton men, as two of the absentees were for that gentleman for senator. Levi P. Morton, Frank Hiscock and Warren M. Wood were put in nomination and a ballot was taken, and the result was as follows: Hiscock, 12. The second ballot showed only one change, that of one of Hiscock's votes to Morton, and the caucus adjourned.

Recapitulation of Indianapolis.
INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 18.—The recount of the ballots in the quo warranto proceedings against Ayres and Morrison for criminal judge and senator, respectively, gives the office to the Republican contestants by small majorities. It was in relation to these offices that the tally-sheets were changed, arrests made, etc.

Post Still Falling Behind.
GALLEGHER, Ill., Jan. 18.—Nine precincts were recounted at this place Monday in the Warington-Park contest, and the result was a gain of nine votes for Worthington.

Hay State Democracy Nominates Collins.
BOYTON, Jan. 18.—The Democrats of both houses of the legislature held a caucus after the adjournment Monday and nominated Hon. Patrick A. Collins for United States senator.

Commander Fairchild at Providence.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 18.—Gen. Lucius R. Fairchild, commander in chief of G. A. R., was banqueted Monday night by the local G. A. R. posts and addressed the veterans at Stoughton post hall. He was enthusiastically received.

An Outbreak Feared.
ATHENS, Jan. 18.—A serious outbreak on the island of Crete is feared. The government has sent reinforcements to the troops stationed there.

BIG DAY FOR PENSIONS.

TWO BILLS PASS THE HOUSE FOR THE VETERANS' BENEFIT.

One of Which Provides for Indigent Veterans—The Mexican Pensioners Bill Nearly a Law—Synopsis of Both of Them—Representative Cox Moves Better—Mrs. Logan's Fund—Hazen's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The bill for the benefit of indigent soldiers and dependent parents introduced in the house about a week ago, passed the house yesterday. It changes the law in regard to dependent parents so that it is not necessary to prove present dependence, instead of dependence at the time of the death of the soldier or sailor. It gives a pension of $15 a month to all children of soldiers or sailors who have been honorably discharged and who are now or may hereafter be suffering from any mental or physical disability, not the result of vicious habits or gross conduct, which incapacitates them from earning support for themselves by legal labor. The pension is to date from the passage of the act, and not more than one pension is to be granted to the same person at the same time. As the terms of the bill include among pensioners the disabled and indigent who participated in all the wars in behalf of the United States, it necessarily includes many persons who were the grey in the civil war after having fought for the Union in earlier years. The bill is not limited to persons whose political disabilities have been removed and whose physical or mental disabilities were not incurred in military service against the United States. It also says it is a "charitable measure," and the intention of the country is in favor of extending a helping hand to the proposed beneficiaries, and equality to those who are in the same situation.

In regard to the cost, he says inquiries were addressed to the treasury department, and upon the information received from about half of them, it is estimated that the act would apply to about 10,000 soldiers and sailors. Adding to this number all others who would be entitled to the benefits of the act, it is estimated that the grant would be $15,000,000; and that the increase of the annual pension charge upon the government would not exceed $4,000,000 or $4,000,000. The objections raised to this bill by Messrs. Chase and A. J. Cass, of Illinois, and George C. Peck, of New York, and others, are based upon the uncertainty of the estimates and the cost. The bill declared that the estimates offered by Messrs. Chase and Peck were based upon the most moderate calculation, and that the number of pensioners would be 10,000, and that the cost would be $15,000,000. The bill also provided that the pensioners should be paid in advance, and that the cost should be paid in advance.

Only five persons out of a total of 348 were against the pension bill, and which passed the house yesterday. The bill is announced by the senate and passed provides that there must have been sixty days' service or a total participation in a battle, and the applicant be 62 years of age, or subject to disability or incapacity, or to a pension cause prescribed by the pension laws as sufficient reason for the allowance of a pension. Widows who have not remarried are entitled to the benefit of the bill, and it is here persons not within the rule of age or disability, or of dependence, or who incurred the disability in the service of the Confederate States. The pension is to be paid only from the date of passage of the act and only during the natural life of the pensioner. The bill provides for the pension which is granted. Pensioners who are now receiving less than $5 a month are to be entitled to an increase hereafter to that amount.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

The Two Houses Got Through with Some Important Matters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The senate adopted a resolution Monday providing that the centennial anniversary of the constitution shall be celebrated by an address by the chief justice of the supreme court, delivered before the president, congress and foreign representatives, and by a civil and military parade. Edmunds hoped the committee having charge of his proposed bill, which would make some sort of report in order that he might get the judgment of the senate on his bill. He also offered a resolution that the first question on conference reports shall be, "Shall the senate agree to the same," and that the senate shall have power to direct its conference. A resolution was offered asking the attorney general to report the liability of the government on the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers. Forty pension bills were then passed, together with the general pension bill (appropriating $75,000,000), and then the bill to establish agricultural experiment stations was debated, but without action the senate adjourned.

A bill was passed in the house appropriating $300,000 for a public building at Worcester, Mass., and Lovings of Massachusetts, at the request of the beneficiary's family, introduced a bill to give Wm. Whitman, the poet, a pension of $25 a month. Kelly of Pennsylvania introduced a bill appropriating $500,000 for a Negro world's exhibition at Birmingham, Ala., in September, 1887. The house refused to consider the conference report on the interstate commerce bill, principally because it was re-computed, and but one more day when bills could be passed under suspension of rules would intervene before the end of the session. The bill was passed allowing a pension of $15 per month to parents of soldiers or sailors, and the only means of self-support of said parents is their own manual labor, and to all soldiers of any war who are without other means of support and are incapacitated for the performance of the necessary labor, and to claim from the date of filing of the claim with evidence of "honorable discharge." The bill does not give pensions to those under political disability. The senate announced to the Mexican pension bill, which was carried in and the bill passed despite Blaine's protest, who said it proposed a service pension and covered every substitute, including bounty-jumpers. Pending action on the senate bill introductory to the Bowman claim act, the house adjourned.

BIG DAY FOR PENSIONS.

TWO BILLS PASS THE HOUSE FOR THE VETERANS' BENEFIT.

One of Which Provides for Indigent Veterans—The Mexican Pensioners Bill Nearly a Law—Synopsis of Both of Them—Representative Cox Moves Better—Mrs. Logan's Fund—Hazen's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The bill for the benefit of indigent soldiers and dependent parents introduced in the house about a week ago, passed the house yesterday. It changes the law in regard to dependent parents so that it is not necessary to prove present dependence, instead of dependence at the time of the death of the soldier or sailor. It gives a pension of $15 a month to all children of soldiers or sailors who have been honorably discharged and who are now or may hereafter be suffering from any mental or physical disability, not the result of vicious habits or gross conduct, which incapacitates them from earning support for themselves by legal labor. The pension is to date from the passage of the act, and not more than one pension is to be granted to the same person at the same time. As the terms of the bill include among pensioners the disabled and indigent who participated in all the wars in behalf of the United States, it necessarily includes many persons who were the grey in the civil war after having fought for the Union in earlier years. The bill is not limited to persons whose political disabilities have been removed and whose physical or mental disabilities were not incurred in military service against the United States. It also says it is a "charitable measure," and the intention of the country is in favor of extending a helping hand to the proposed beneficiaries, and equality to those who are in the same situation.

In regard to the cost, he says inquiries were addressed to the treasury department, and upon the information received from about half of them, it is estimated that the act would apply to about 10,000 soldiers and sailors. Adding to this number all others who would be entitled to the benefits of the act, it is estimated that the grant would be $15,000,000; and that the increase of the annual pension charge upon the government would not exceed $4,000,000 or $4,000,000. The objections raised to this bill by Messrs. Chase and A. J. Cass, of Illinois, and George C. Peck, of New York, and others, are based upon the uncertainty of the estimates and the cost. The bill declared that the estimates offered by Messrs. Chase and Peck were based upon the most moderate calculation, and that the number of pensioners would be 10,000, and that the cost would be $15,000,000.
